OUR GLORIOUS PROVINCE.

Existing Grievances and How to Redress Them—Be True to Each Other—Victory Certain.

(By an Occasional Contributor.)

That we have had neither party nor policy in the past few years has been due to circumstances not likely to occur again in the history of the country. The terms of Confederation raised expectations which carried with them certain realizations, such as plunder and political pap, and the public becoming as permeated with new born hopes, made dazzling by political tricksters, lost sight of real and struggled after imaginary issues. In this manner men were elected, as a contemporary asserts, on personal more than meritorious grounds, and the real interests of the country subordinated to personal ends. Such of the elected as had no personal aims to espouse became the sworn supporters of the more able and cunning, until every act which greed or love of notoriety could conjure, became a criminal epithet on personal politics and designs. The people, as a rule, who were largely influenced by the hurry and bustle of development, were unconscious of their duty, and by their apathy on the one hand and hope of gain on the other, allowed the true interests of the country to go by default, until finally made aware of the fact, that the country of which they were so proud, and for which they had was slipping from their grasp like a beautiful dream, and only to be regained by stern resolve and adhesion to strict party principles. The cry that no party exists is false. From the shores of the Atlantic to the Pacific there is a strange unrest needing only the cry of the master spirit to unfold its grievances. High rates through the one highway of the Northwest, and the attempt to build up a parasite interests at the expense of the many, contrary to economic laws, is manifesting itself in various forms of public oppression. The appointment and maintenance of public officials, obnoxious to general interests, the shooting down of the discontented first and inquiry into their troubles afterwards, are as grievances deep-rooted and prove to shoot forth at any time. The spirit of animus already being exhibited between the two powerful races of the Dominion, fanned by religious and political differences of opinion will at no distant day exhibit its irony in another and more distinct form. The party of old world instincts and associations, who are for ever extolling the virtues of a governmental system which denied them an existence at home, are at variance with the young and intellectual Canadian, whose vigor and growth is bound up in the virgin soil of his nativity, thinks of the Dominion first and of traditional and questionable glories afterwards. This is his country, as such he claims it, and demands for it an existence compatible with his manhood and independence of spirit.

A KNIGHT OF THE GARTER

conveys to him no semblance of authority; his idea of class privileges are vague and uncertain, but this he understands and will support, that the individual who is most useful in promoting the interests of the many, and guarding public property from spoliation, is the only kind of Knight who can command support in the political arena of the future. This party which is believed to have no existence is the party of the future, distributed through every portion of this wide domain, on the look out for the despoilers of their rights and defaulters of public trusts. If labor, as well as every other interest were subjected to the mere law of supply and demand, no complaints would exist, as the ills now complained of as a crime, would regulate labor in proportion to the cost of living. But when we find capital protected and the government of a country in collusion with it to provide labor in excess of the demand in the sole interests of capital; the manufactures protected and mens' lives neglected, then we come to the conclusion that they who are guilty of this crime must be held responsible, and so far as their political existence is concerned must be eliminated from the country.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF ACRES of land, obtained for mere speculative purposes, pays no taxes commensurate with that which is taxed. It may further be stated that in proportion to the wealth extracted from the province, a few men owning one-fifth part of the available country do not provide a thousandth part of the revenue, but compel others to pay their shares by indirect methods of taxation. To say that men will be selected on account of the principles they profess, would be as much as to infer that any monkey which could be taught how to whistle would answer the purpose of a representative. Out upon such nonsense!

THE MEN OF THE FUTURE

must be men of character and brains, noodles will no longer satisfy public intelligence. They must at least possess the quality of consistency and be known to have lived up to it. If they are not rich, it will go towards proving that they have not been corrupted and have not stooped to the unprincipled methods which have made many men affluent. Are we to accept snob sophistry as would advise us to lose sight of the men who have fooled us because they are cunning enough to pick up one of our grievances and promise to redress them? Oh No! There is a different intelligence in the air than that. Deceivers look out for it; true servers prepare for it; and finally all ye that have interests in the wide Dominion be true to one another; organize your grievances, and yours will be the party to win.

CANADA FIRST.

THE IMMIGRANT.

The Toronto Globe seems very anxious to temporize the Mail for its advocacy of assisted immigration, and repeating the 48.40 statement so often heard that an immigrant is worth $1000. In the case of the paupers, loafers and criminals, and our penitentiary and reformatory records show we import many of these classes, the value of the immigrant is obviously a good deal less than nothing. But take the case of our industrious, hard-working immigrant. He may be worth $1000. But to whom? To the Canadian mechanic or laborer whose chances of employment are diminished and whose wages are reduced by his competition? Hardly. If he is worth anything at all it is to the capitalist. And the Mail and the government it represents look only to the interests of capitalists and care nothing about those of the people, or they would cease to harp on the story about the "value" to the country of immigrants while we can't find work for those now here.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Gossip from Ottawa—Interesting Announcements—Future Traffic—A Progressive Company.

(From our own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 15, 1885.

RAILWAY GOSSIP.

The completion of the Canadian Pacific is looked forward to in this part of the Dominion with much interest. The exact date at which the connection between the two ends will be made as well as the probable locality will be announced in a few days. Beyond the presence of the General Manager, a director or two, a few friends and the representatives of the leading press, it is not likely the event will be witnessed by many others.

THE ALL RAIL ROUTE

to Winnipeg and the Columbia river will be opened for traffic beyond doubt, on Monday, 2nd of November. The superintendents of the several divisions have been kept busy during the past week or two in arranging for placing the operating staff along the north shore of Lake Superior. The capabilities of every one of these has been fully tested, and it is certain no line has a superior set of employees than those to be met with between Pembroke and Port Arthur. A considerable amount of freight has already passed over this route; but desiring to put the road bed in the very best possible condition for heavy traffic it was deemed advisable to utilise the "magnificent water stretches" from Owen Sound to Port Arthur, which had been in use for navigation closes. The increase in the volume of traffic this year over the Lake Superior route has been very great and certain to increase in the future rapidly.

THE C. P. R. STEAMERS.

Much speculation is indulged in as to the future of the magnificent liners—the Algoma, Alberta and Athabasca—that now ply between Port Arthur and Owen Sound. At one time it was supposed these would be kept on this route to act as feeders for the Toronto, Grey and Bruce section of the C. P. R. systems in Ontario. The development of the north-west traffic may demand this, as it will be utterly impossible for one line of railway to handle the transportation business certain to be offered it in a few years. It was rumored that these vessels were to be transferred to the waters of the Pacific, but I am in a position to state that until the company fail to make arrangements for either the purchase or building of vessels specially adapted to the Pacific terminus trade, that attempt will be left to abeyance.

BURRARD INLET ROUTE,

The company have determined to extend the main line by way of Port Moody along the south shore of Burrard Inlet to Coal Harbor, thus giving the company control of the entire foreshore for over 14 miles, constituting Burrard Inlet beyond doubt the finest harbor in the world. For some weeks the company's officials were in this city obtaining information and data before coming to this conclusion. Instructions have been issued to its engineers in your province to proceed at once with the survey and location of the line along the beach of the Inlet as soon as the New Westminster line has been disposed of, which will be early next week.

THE TERMINAL FACILITIES.

Being favored with a glimpse of the plans and specifications of the terminal buildings and other facilities at Vancouver for the company's business, I can assert that there is a great surprise in store for British Columbians, who have supposed these would be of a trifling character. Although lot of architectural beauty they are large, commodious and very substantial, intended to be ample for the requirements of the company for some years to come, and likewise capable of extension without distracting from their symmetrical effect. The wharves are to be of modern design and intended to accommodate an extensive fleet of the largest ocean-going vessels.

MR. VAN HORNE,

the company's energetic general manager is waiting the junction of the rails in order to proceed to Vancouver to make final arrangements for the locating of the several buildings and choosing the site for the docks and wharves. I am informed that he is confident that he will accomplish the journey from Montreal to Vancouver during the first week of next month, as according to his last advices from the Selkirks division there were only twenty-one miles to finish.

PLANS OF THE CITY.

Mr. L. A. Hamilton, Assistant Land Commissioner, has been instructed to proceed with all expedition with the preparation of the block plan of the City of Vancouver, in order to have it complete for the inspection of the General Manager on his arrival there, and to receive his approval ere it is registered.

LOCATION OF C BATTERY.

On excellent authority I have it that the government has decided to locate "C" Battery on the Coal Harbor peninsula. The military officials have recommended the selection of this locality and it will unquestionably be carried out. The change will create dissatisfaction but as no bill was introduced carrying into effect the items embraced in the estimates, it is held by those in authority that the change from Victoria to the mainland terminus is not only permissible but likewise justifiable, in consequence of the immensely valuable property that will require protection at the terminus.

GOVERNMENT IMPROVEMENTS.

It is understood that the government will erect public buildings at the terminus of a character in keeping with those of the syndicate and likewise expend a considerable sum in harbor improvements, all of which will be deemed necessary in the public interests.

TODAY'S TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Associated Press Despatches to The Times.

THE TIMES OFFICE,
Victoria, 4.30 p. m., Oct. 23.

MR. STEAD'S TRIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The trial of Mr. Stead, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, Rebecca Jarrett, Mr. Bramwell Booth, Mrs. Dowd, Mr. Sampson Jaques, and Louise E. Mowry, defendants in the Armstrong abduction case, began to-day before Justice Topes, at the Central Criminal Court. A large crowd had assembled in front of the building previous to the opening of the Court, but a heavy rain set in, and they scattered to places of shelter. The prisoners pleaded not guilty. Sir Richard E. Webster, Attorney-General, opened the case for the Crown. His address covered the same ground as that of Mr. Poland. Magistrate Justice Topes held that no motives, no matter how worthy their object, were sufficient to justify the taking of a girl without her parents consent; that consent has been obtained in a fraudulent manner; it was no consent in the eyes of the law. Witnesses testimony so far is merely a repetition of the evidence given at the preliminary examination. Eliza Armstrong testified freely and clearly. The trial will probably last a week. Defendants are charged with a misdemeanor instead of felony, so as to enable them to testify in their own behalf and be liberated on bail during the progress of the trial.

THE INDIAN POLICY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—A gentleman who is in a position to know the conclusion at which the President has arrived on the Indian question, expressed the opinion that the main feature in the Indian policy of the administration, as it will be announced to Congress, will be the accommodation in methods of purchasing and issuing provisions, and all other supplies. Almost every feature of the present system is disapproved by the President. The President believes that if the army is to be expected to prevent Indian depredations, the military authorities should be given power to assist in removing the causes of dissatisfaction, by providing for an honest distribution of supplies. This policy has long been recommended by Generals Sheridan and Sherman and other high military officers.

THE AUSTRIAN MISSION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A Washington special to the Post says: Persons who ought to know say that it has been decided to offer General Alexander S. Lawton, of Georgia, the mission to Austria, but that the nomination will remain in abeyance until after the assembling of Congress, in order that application may then be made for the removal of his political disabilities. It is thought that such a course will be more expedient than to risk the failure of confirmation, for of course it is not certain that the Republican Senate will accept, though it is the opinion of the Attorney General that a pardon from President Johnson had the effect of removing the disabilities. General Lawton is the gentleman who in March was nominated to the Russian mission.

THE BURMESE TROUBLE.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The Burmese Envoy yesterday handed a note to Lord Lyons, Ambassador, in which he stated he had sent a dispatch to his government, advising them to accept an arbitration for the settlement of the dispute with England, and that he certainly would be glad to restore friendly relations with Great Britain. The European residents in Burmah, he said, were perfectly safe. The people in that country had no desire to be hostile to England.

PARIS, Oct. 23. The Journal des Debats, commenting on the British expedition against King Thebaw, urges the French government to protest against any sort of British annexation of Burmah.

THE CAROLINES.

MADRID, Oct. 23.—The populace is becoming incensed at the reticence of the government respecting the negotiations on the Carolines question and fears of an outbreak are entertained. The German legation is strongly guarded to prevent a repetition of the recent outrage. The Spanish accounts of the German occupation of Yap confirm the report therein. Public feeling is [illegible]

THE FRENCH MINISTRY.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The Brisson Ministry is now uncertain about its ability to hold a majority of the new Chamber of Deputies, as a serious split in the Republican ranks is threatened. The Republicans were united to carry those districts which required a second ballot in the recent elections, but now each faction insists on the adoption of its own programme.

WHAT BULGARIA WILL DO.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 23.—Herr Von Radowitz, German ambassador, has informed the Porte that Prince Alexander has guaranteed that Bulgaria shall not disturb the present order of things. The Prince has ordered his troops to avoid provoking a conflict in any quarter, but does not hold himself answerable for his neighbors.

LATE APPOINTMENTS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—John C. Shields, appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Arizona, is a prominent lawyer of Howell, Mich., and about 38 years of age. Wm. H. Barnes, appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Arizona, is a lawyer of Jacksonville, Ills., about 35 years of age.

HANLAN-TEEMER.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The Hanlan-Teemer race will be rowed between 3.30 and 4.30 p. m. to-morrow. Betting is slightly in favor of Hanlan.

A cable from London quotes Hudson Bay shares at £19¾ and Northwest Land at 40s.

Canadian Pacific is firm, with sales in London at 47, and in New York at 46 and 46¼.

One of the government steamers leave Quebec for Labrador this week loaded with fuel and flour to alleviate the sufferings of the poor fishermen and their families of that place.

The Railway News, of London states that the number of passengers carried on all the railroads in all parts of the world in 1882 is estimated at 2,400,000,000, or an average of 6,500,000 a day.

At Quebec on the 9th inst., five medical men appointed by the city corporation as inspecting physicians were at their post examining all passengers from Montreal who arrived there. Amongst others who had to have their arms examined on the arrival of the Montreal train was Mr. L. A. Senecal. He had been already re-vaccinated.

RIEL'S EXECUTION.

Postponed until Nov. 11th—French-Canadians Hope for a Compromise.

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—A special from Ottawa says: At a Cabinet meeting yesterday it was decided to postpone Riel's execution until Nov. 11th. The French-Canadians still express confidence that Riel will not be hanged. They base their hopes on the recommendation to mercy of the Regina jury.

POLICE COURT.

James Quin, James McCarley, and Robert Hall, charged with being drunk. Fined $5 each, in default one week.

Barry and Harris, on remand from yesterday. Mr. Walls appeared for the defence, and Mr. Fell for the prosecution.

Jack Sing, sworn: As I was passing by a butcher shop on Yates street, there were four boys, among them were the three in court. In answer to a telephone from Mr. Hunter, I left his house at about a quarter past four. Harris caught hold of me and pulled me into the stable and threw me down. There is a fruit store between the stable and the butcher shop. Harris called to the others to close the door quick, and Manson and Barry closed it. Harris then unbuttoned my clothes, put his hand in my pant's pocket and took out 75 cts. I was on the floor and Harris on the top of me. He then told the others to open the door and they went back to the butcher shop. I told them I would tell my master about it. Harris did not strike me, he simply threw me down.

To Mr. Walls: Harris did not give it back. I did not tell officer Walker that I did not lose a cent; I did not go into the dry goods store; I did not see any chickens. I swear that Manson was there. This closed the evidence for the prosecution. Mr. Walls then spoke for the defence and said: Mr. Harris keeps a fruit, game and chicken store next to Beak's butcher shop. He has a shed where he sometimes keeps his chickens. He saw plaintiff go into this shed and look at the chickens, and having no right there, he took him by the shoulders and put him out of the door.

The following witnesses were then called for the defence.

Mr. Marks, sworn: I am a butcher and employed in Beak's butcher store. I was on the sidewalk about 4.30 p. m. and Mr. Barry and Mr. Harris were along with me. I saw Jack Sing go into the shed. From what I said Barry and Harris went into the shed, and in a minute afterwards I saw the Chinaman being pushed out by Barry and Harris. The door of the shed was not closed. The Chinaman had no right there. I saw chickens in the shed during the afternoon.

To Mr. Fell—There is an entrance to the backyard from the shed. Barry went in first. Both pushed the Chinaman out. I was standing on the sidewalk right in front of the store.

To the Court—Harris usually keeps his poultry in the shed. Doors were wide open on this occasion. The poultry are exposed for sale in the shed.

Constable Walker, sworn—I remember the afternoon of Thursday week last. I came with the defendant from his house. He complained to me that his clothes were torn; that a man had taken hold of him by the shoulder. I asked him if he had lost anything; he said he had lost nothing. I asked him to show me where his clothes were torn, but he could not do it.

To the Court—It was about five o'clock in the afternoon; he had two ducks in the basket. I asked him if Harris struck him. "No," he said, "Harris very good man."

Henry Harris, sworn—I am a store keeper on Yates street next to Beak's butcher shop; there is a shed on the other side. I use the shed for storing my poultry. About 4.30 p. m., on Thursday week last, I was standing on the sidewalk with Barry and Harris. I saw the Chinaman go into the shed; Barry and I followed. There were six chickens in the shed; the Chinaman was about two feet from the chickens. Barry pushed him by the arm and put him out without using any violence. He did not resist. We took no money from him. He had no right there.

To the court—The chickens were not in sight of passers. I keep fruit, etc., inside the shed.

The magistrate found Harris & Barry guilty of assault and fined them $5 and $2 25 costs each.

George Apostle, for infraction of the city by-laws, was dismissed on paying costs.

Ah Kip, charged with supplying intoxicating liquor to an Indian; fined $50 and $1 costs or three months with hard labor.

Court adjourned till 2.30 p. m.

AN EXCELLENT WORK.

A New Immigration Pamphlet for British Columbia Being Issued by the Federal Government.

The immigration pamphlet issued by the Dominion government last year for British Columbia was such a wretched affair that it was decided to issue another and more accurate one, embracing much valuable information for intending settlers. It is understood that representations were made by the provincial government pointing out the inaccuracies with which the pamphlet of 1884 abounded, and the vagueness of its information. The forthcoming work, of which an edition of 50,000 copies is already in press by the Department of Agriculture, is a decided improvement on its predecessor in every respect. It is brought down to a very recent date; embraces much matter of interest—compiled by those resident in this province who were thoroughly familiar with its vast resources—that will be read with avidity by those residing in the province, as well as by the intending settler, and must prove of great value to British Columbia's interests abroad. It treats on our agricultural, mineral and manufacturing resources; the forests; the streams; our wonderful climate and the trade and commerce which is certain to receive an immense impetus on the completion of the Canadian Transcontinental railway. The work is accompanied by a map of the province showing the route of the railways from the eastern portion of the province to Vancouver. In short, it abounds with valuable information condensed in as small compass and perfectly intelligible. Its arrival in this province for distribution will be eagerly looked for.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

NEXT year being the centenary of the publication of BURNS' "Poems, chiefly in the Scottish Dialect," MR. ELLIOT STOCK, of London, will issue a fac-simile of the work.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES has been persuaded to subsuit herself to a firm of Danish dressmakers, that she may bring back with her an example or two of Danish taste, cut and fit.

PRINCE GEORGE OF WALES has gained a first-class certificate in gunnery as a result of his studies on board the Excellent. He is now qualifying in pilotage, and with three first class certificates will be promoted to his lieutenancy at an early date.

THE appointments of revising barristers are being made in every portion of the Dominion under the new Franchise Bill, and the government appears to be selecting quite a number of county judges as promised in Parliament in concession to the opposition demand.

PRESENT indications are that the imperial elections will be all over by the end of November. The new parliament will meet in the first week of December to be sworn in and will then adjourn to February. Parliament has only met three times before during QUEEN VICTORIA'S reign in December—it met in 1854, 1857, and 1868. It sat once, however, and only once in the month of December. That was when it met in urgency to carry the rules of procedure or cloture?

Canada First, which was discontinued two years ago, after having run eighteen months, is now revived. As before it is published in Montreal, with the following as its platform: "The National Policy, the backbone of the country, that builds up our manufactories and gives employment to our people. No government assistance to immigrants to fill up our prisons and poor-houses, and take the bread out of the mouths of our under-paid workingmen. Canadian interests above all other interests."

THE Canada Law Journal has the following: "The pernicious example set some years ago by VICE-CHANCELLOR MOWAT in stepping down from the Bench into the arena of party politics has been followed by JUDGE THOMSON, of Nova Scotia, who takes the position of Minister of Justice of the Dominion. For either party after this to refer to the subject would indeed be for the pot to call the kettle back. We presume, therefore, there will be very little said about it. That there is now ample precedent for this descent is a misfortune to the country."

INDEPENDENT journalism, though receiving many a kick in its upward course, is meeting with public favor. Less could not have been expected. Of course it is the party organs and a few violent politicians who, conscious of the mistake they have made in alienating the sympathies of moderate men by extreme language and rash measures, now seek to belittle the literature forced into existence by their own folly. "Whose is not with us is against us" protests the partisan, and so the journalist who places truth above party and the public good before self interest is incontinently attacked on all sides. There is an old saying that a cause must pass through three stages ere it can claim to be successful: first, it is ignored; then it is attacked; finally it is endorsed. Party frenzy shortened the preliminary experience of the independent press; it is now undergoing the middle stage.

UNFAMILIARITY with English affairs has betrayed some of our contemporaries into crediting Prince Bismarck as Cresswell with having originated the project for making Galway a great naval port. The scheme has been mooted scores of times—on several occasions in connection with a proposal for the establishment of a new line of trans-Atlantic steamers. No English government has of late seen its way to granting a subsidy for such a purpose; and as Parnellite terrorism has driven capital out of Ireland, besides discouraging English investors, the idea has lapsed for want of support. It is a mistake, however, to suppose that a line of steamers running from Galway to New York or Point Levis would divert trans-Atlantic trade. The time saved would not partly compensate for the transhipment of either goods or passengers.

LEAVING THE COUNTRY.

NOW that work on construction in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway, is ended, and no probability of their receiving employment in any other capacity on this coast, the Chinese are gradually working their way eastwards to the great cities and centres of labor on the Atlantic slope. The recent troubles in Wyoming and Washington Territories, added to the determination of the Knights of Labor to make an onslaught on the employment of the Mongolian, has had the effect of arousing JOHN to the necessity of his removing to other climes. Instead of returning to the Flowery Kingdom, he has made up his mind to act contrary to HORACE GREELEY'S advice so sagely given to "go west," the heathen Celestial goes east to enter into competition with the Ontario, the Ohio and the Pennsylvania workmen, and by his presence add further complications to the labor difficulties that have so long and persistently reigned in those sections of this continent. It is stated on the best authority that a shrewd, well educated Chinaman recently arrived in Pittsburg, which is the great labor centre of the continent, and announced himself as an agent, empowered to make contracts with employers of labor, and secure a district in the city for the formation of a Chinese colony. He announced that there were five agents besides himself, and between them they covered the entire eastern section of the country. The Pittsburg agent said that he had been very successful in Cincinnati and Wheeling, and he expected to found a colony of 500 in Pittsburg. The movement is a direct result of the Wyoming massacre. This exodus of the Chinamen to the East has been expected for some years. What effect it will have on the labor market cannot be accurately predicted but it will be very apt to result in a still further reduction of wages in the Ohio Valley, and consequently in trouble. The miners in that section are not a particularly peaceable or well satisfied lot at present, and amuse themselves every now and then in riotous proceedings which have to be suppressed by the militia. The Chinamen may find that in fleeing from Wyoming to Ohio they have passed from the frying pan into the fire. The United States is barred against them, and the American government will see that very few evade the law and cross the line, now that it has to pay $50 for the privilege of restoring each one of them to British soil. They will consequently be obliged to go east, and it will probably be but a few months before the hegira of the heathen Celestial to the east will begin.

WORTHY CONSIDERATION.

Comparison is being drawn between the present era under the reign of QUEEN VICTORIA and that of her predecessors, as well as the men who occupied prominent positions during these respective periods. A contemporary referring to the topic asserts that there were some statesmen in the days of QUEEN ELIZABETH; but will any one say that her Chief Minister, BURLEIGH, who could change his religious faith with as great ease as his coat, who could drop his friends whenever it was inconvenient to support them, who could look after the interests of his own family as carefully as the interests of the state, who never pushed good advice on his royal mistress when it was distasteful, who could go to mass under MARY and murder Catholics under ELIZABETH, and who could accumulate a fortune through his opportunities as Premier—was superior in morals or patriotism to QUEEN VICTORIA'S Premiers, MR. GLADSTONE or LORD SALISBURY. There were brave soldiers at Cressy and Poictiers, but were they braver men than those who charged at Balaklava? Was the cruel and corrupt Jeffries presiding over a "bloody assize" a more upright judge than those who sit on the bench in our day? Are our merchants less honest and honorable than those who made their fortunes out of the slave trade, or by piracy? With all the impurity whether real or fancied, that is charged to society under the reign of VICTORIA, where is the student of history who will think of comparing our social life with that under the reign of the last CHARLES or of the last GEORGE?

LORD SALISBURY out of office: Russia is a bankrupt liar, and it is England's manifest duty to oppose her barbaric march to the Bosphorus and to India. LORD SALISBURY as Premier: We practically endorse the policy of our predecessors on the Afghan question, and it is none of our affair whether Bulgaria obtains autonomy or not. Moon: The partition of Bulgaria was the one point upon which LORD SALISBURY and his chief, EARL BEACONSFIELD, sternly insisted at the Berlin meeting—the gaining of which meant "peace with honor." As Russia, in the San Stefano treaty, proposed a union of the Bulgarias, it is natural to suppose that the present shuffle of the cards meets with her actual if undeclared approval.

REPORTS from the Northwest Territories are rather unsatisfactory. MR. J. K. OSGATH, of Calgary, says it would not surprise him if there was another Indian rising. The people of the territories think that too much haste was made by the government in withdrawing the troops from the disturbed districts, but that a proper distribution of the Mounted Police force may tend to keep things in a peaceful state. The illicit whiskey traffic MR. OSWALD thinks has a demoralizing effect on business in the vicinity of Calgary, it being smuggled across the border from Montana. A local license law would do much to check this evil and be more beneficial than the present prohibition restrictions which are not enforced.

THE Indians of No. 4 treaty, North-west, are to be vaccinated, by orders from the Dominion government.

The only line to take for Des Moines, Marshalltown, Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Dixon, Chicago, Milwaukee, and all points East. To the people of Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Washington and California, it offers superior advantages not possessed by any other line.

Among a few of the numerous points of superiority enjoyed by the patrons of this road between Omaha and Chicago, are its two trains a day of DAY COACHES, which are the finest that human art and ingenuity can create; its PALACE SLEEPING CARS, which are models of comfort and elegance; its FAMOUS DRAWING ROOM CARS, manned by sable and the widely celebrated PALATIAL DINING CARS, the equal of which cannot be found elsewhere.

At Council Bluffs the trains of the Union Pacific Ry. connect in Union Depot with those of the Chicago & Northwestern Ry. In Chicago the trains of this line make close connection with those of all Eastern lines.

IN LUCK AT LAST

BY WALTER BESANT.

"This is the best day's work I ever did Mr. Emblem went on. "To remember the letter, word for word, and everything! Mr. Arbuthnot has, very likely, finished the whole business by now. Thousands—thousands—and all for True!"

"Look here, Mr. Emblem," said the lawyer, angrily. "You'll not only be a bankrupt if you go on like this, but you'll be a fraudulent bankrupt as well. Is it honest, I want to know, to refuse to pay your just debts when you've put by thousands, as you boast—you actually boast—for your granddaughter?"

"Yes," said the old man, "for will have thousands."

"I think, sir," said Lala Roy, "that you are under an illusion. Mr. Emblem does not possess any such savings or investments as you imagine."

"Then why does he go on talking about thousands?"

"He has had a shock; he cannot quite understand what has happened. You had better leave him for the present."

"Leave him! And nothing but those mouldy old books! Here, you, sir—you—James—you shopman—come here! What is the stock worth?"

"It depends upon whether you are buying or selling," said James. "If you were to sell it under the hammer, in lots, it would'n't fetch a hundred pounds."

"There, you hear—you hear, all of you! Not a hundred pounds, and my bill of sale is three-fifty."

"Pray, sir," said Lala Roy, "who told you that Mr. Emblem was so wealthy?"

"His grandson."

"Then, sir, perhaps it would be well to question the grandson further. He may know things or which we have heard nothing."

Mr. Chalker went away at length, leaving the man—the professional person—behind. Then Lala Roy persuaded Mr. Emblem to go up stairs again. He did so without any apparent consciousness that there was a man in possession.

"James," said Lala Roy, "you have heard that your master has been robbed. You are reflecting and meditating on this circumstance. Another thing is that a creditor has threatened to sell all everything for debt. Most likely, everything will be sold, and the shop closed. You will, therefore, lose the place you have had for five-and-twenty years. That is a very bad business for you. You are unfortunate this morning. To lose your place—and then this robbery. That seems also a bad business."

"It is," said James with a hollow groan. "It is, Mr. Lala Roy. It is a dreadful bad business."

"Pray, Mr. James," continued this man with grave, searching eyes which made sinners shake in their shoes, "pray, why did you run away, and where did you go after you opened the shop this morning? You went to see Mr. Emblem's grandson, did you not?"

"Yes, I did, said James.

"Why did you go to see him?"

"I—I—went—oh, Lord!—I want to tell him what had happened, because he master's grandson, and I thought he ought to know," said James.

"Did you tell him?"

"No; he has left his lodgings. I don't know where he is—oh, and he always told me the shop was his—settled on him," he said.

"He is the Father of Lies; his end will be confusion. Shame and confusion shall wait upon all who have hearkened unto him or worked with him, until they repent and make atonement."

"Don't, Mister Lala Roy—don't; you frighten me," said James. "Oh, what a dreadful liar he is!"

All that morning the Philosopher sat in the bookseller's chair, and James, in the outer shop, felt that those deep eyes were resting continually upon him, and knew that bit by bit his secret would be dragged out of him. If he could get up and run away—if a customer would come—if the dark gentleman would go up stairs—if he could think of something else! But none of these happened, and James, at his table with the paste before him, pasted a morning compared with which any seat anywhere in Purgatory would have been comfortable. Presently a range feeling came over him as if some invisible force was pushing and dragging him and forcing him to leave his chair, and throw himself at the Philosopher's feet and confess everything. This was the mesmeric effect of those reproachful eyes fixed steadily upon him. And in the doorway, like some figure in a nightmare—a figure incongruous and out of place—the man in possession sitting, passive and unconcerned, with one eye on the street and the other on the door. Up stairs Mr. Emblem was sitting fast asleep; joy had made him speechless, and his work of years was safe. Up stairs Lala Roy was thinking out the best way of getting rid of the man in possession. Down stairs James was trembling with fear and remorse.

To Lala Roy the situation presented a problem with insufficient data, some of which would have to be guessed. A letter, now lost, said that a certain man considered papers necessary to obtain an unknown inheritance for him. How, then, to ascertain whether anybody was expecting or looking for a girl to claim an inheritance? There there was half a mad chance, and lastly there was a certain customer of unknown name, who had been acquainted with Iris's father before his marriage. So far for Iris. As for the thief, Lala Roy had no doubt at all. It was, he was quite certain, the grandson, whose career he had watched for some years with interest and curiosity. Where was there who would steal the papers? And who would help him, and give him free access to the shop? He had not seen James, but he was certain that James was in some way a confederate of the thief. Why else did he turn so pale? Why did he rush off to Jo lodgings? Why did he sit trembling?

At half-past twelve Lala Roy rose.

"It is your dinner hour," he said to James, and it seemed to this unhappy man as if he was saying, "I know all. It is your dinner hour; go, eat, refresh the body. Who should suspect a fright except the guilty?

James put on his hat and sneaked—as if that he was sneaking—out of the shop.

During his dinner hour Joseph himself called. It was an enormous thing to go home at any time; in fact, as he was never wont to call upon his grandfather, unless he was in a scrape and wanted money, no one could make the poor young man welcome, begged him to come more often.

But this morning he walked up stairs, appeared to cheerful, so evidently free from any self reproach for past sins, and so easy in his mind, without the least touch of the old haggard look, that the philosopher reproached himself for thinking badly of people.

FROM THE FOREST.

SPECIMENS OF THE VARIOUS TREES OF THE UNITED STATES.

Portions of the Bark and Transverse and Longitudinal Sections of the Wood —Extraordinary Growths—Peculiar Formations.

[Scientific American.]

There has recently been placed on exhibition at the New York Museum of Natural History, an almost complete representation of the trees of the United tates, between 500 and 600 trunk sections of the different species. These specimens are about five feet eight inches long each, cut in such manner as to display their barks and the transverse and longitudinal sections of the wood. This is done by cutting away one side of each specimen at the top to the depth of one-half the diameter of the trunk and for one third of its length. One-half of each exposed portion is polished to illustrate the effect of this treatment of the wood, the remainder being left in the natural condition, with the top of the upper divided part finished by beveling. In the case of trees of commercial importance this form of representation is supplemented by carefully selected planks, or by burls, showing better than the logs the true industrial value of the wood.

Among specimens of this kind is a plank of redwood (Sequoia sempervirens), measuring eight and one-half feet in width. A species remarkable for slow growth, and which is only twenty-four inches in diameter, shows an age of 440 years, being the oldest tree in the collection. This is the Picea Engelmanni, named for its discoverer, Dr. Engelmann, and known also as Engelmann's spruce. An example of slow growth is seen in the Pinus edulis, or edible pine from Arizona, called also nut pine. The seed of this pine which resembles a good-sized bean, is used by the Indians for food. A tree of this species which is 900 years old measures only fifteen inches in diameter. Another specimen, which is 341 years old, shows diameter of thirty-seven inches. It is the western shell bark hickory (Carya sulcata) from Allentown, Me. The same locality is represented by a specimen of the Tilia Americana, or basswood, which is forty inches in diameter and 150 years old.

This valuable collection, numerically exceeding that made in connection with the census reports, includes examples of many curious and interesting species, of which probably the complete natural series could never have been viewed in their native soil by any single traveler, however diligent. Among the specimens of such interest is that of the Gleditschia triacanthus, or honey locust, from Missouri. This is a tree of singular appearance. Its trunk is covered with thorn clusters, the spikes shooting out like rays in all directions from their growth centers. These thorn formations have their basis in the bark alone, without any source whatever in the wood itself, not even reaching it, and are easily detached. It was, therefore, necessary to suspend the tree from the ceiling of the car in its journey from the west.

Another equally extraordinary tree is a representative of Texas. This is the Cereus gigantus, which resembles a fluted column. It is a tree which can be readily taken all to pieces. Its component parts are in the form of vertical sections of twisting curvatures in the line of their circumference, whereby one portion is fitted exactly to another. They can be separated without the slightest difficulty, in the absence of any heart at the center for their attachment. The Washingtonia palm (Washingtoniana filifera) from southern California is also curious. The specimen includes the top of the tree, which is severed from the body, and bears its dried and yellow wide spreading leaves. Its peculiarity is in the ring formations of the trunk, which are almost wholly detached from each other, standing one within another like a succession of forms of bark. They are easily detached from each other.

The cocoanut tree from Key West and the finely odorous nutmeg tree from California are among other specimens of importance. The catalpa is represented as a species most remarkable for its durability. Some of this wood known to have been buried in the earth for seventy-five years has been brought out in perfectly sound condition. Specimens of beautiful woods are seen in the hoiapensis, the arbutus, sweet bay (Persea carolinensis), laska cedar, hamœcyparis nutkaensis, and the beautifully figured maple burl from Prescott.

With only seven unimportant exceptions, the specific gravity, ash, and fuel value of the wood of every indigenous aborescent species of the united States have been scientifically determined.

The "Noble Six Hundred."

[Chicago Times.]

John Reynolds, now of Buffalo, was one of the "Noble Six Hundred" that rode into the "valley of death" at the battle of Balaklava. When asked how many came out of the charge alive, Mr. Reynolds said it was hard to say, as so many were killed afterward. Probably there were 250 on horseback who returned to the English lines. The man did not drop far than in a general engagement, and Mr. Reynolds thinks the three and a half hours at the Alma were far more bloody than that famous ride to glory.

"At the Alma one could not take a step in any direction without treading upon the remains of a man or a horse. In the charge at Balaklava it was purely a matter of capturing the battery and then returning—if that were possible—and the soldiers did not falter once. Mr. Reynolds knows, that Tennyson's poem has immortalized that day's work, but he does not believe it was harder or more worthy of commemoration than a hundred other fights in which he served.

Political Parties in China.

[Pall Mall Gazette.]

Party government would evidently not suit China, for this is how the empress talks of the palladium of English liberties. "The creation of parties and factions, and the support of their own party and the vilification of opposing ones, was a vicious habit that prevailed among officers of government in the days of the Ming dynasty; but this evil propensity is not tolerated now, and it is our duty to punish offenses of such nature as a warning against indulgence therein." Party government, then, like the mariner's compass, gunpowder, and printing, was known in China before we ever thought of it. Chinese party men are now

A Clean City.

One of the marvels of Dresden to American visitors is its cleanly streets. The law forbids them to be made dumps for refuse of any kind, even scraps of paper, and, strange as it may seem, the police see the law is enforced.

Another New Metal.

[Arkansas Traveler.]

Increasing knowledge of simple substances existing only in very minute quantities bids fair to eventually extend our list of the elements making up the universe considerably beyond the sixty-five or seventy lines for enumerated by chemists. A newly discovered rare element is "norwegium," found by Dr. T. Dahl in nickel ore from Snarum, Norway. It is a malleable metal, of a white color slightly tinged with brown, a hardness about equal to that of copper, a specific gravity of 9.0441, and a melting point of [illegible]. It appears to [illegible] several properties and chemical reactions from every other known metal.

The Daily Times.

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Victoria, Friday, Oct. 23, 1885.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always accorded to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

—Sorry we can give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents therefore will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible should be observed in writing as also legible, and on one side of the sheet only.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Thistle Club will meet to-night.

—Before purchasing Real Estate or insuring your life, see Reid Bros.

—The Geo. E. Starr brought freight for: Standard Oil Co., H Saunders, S Leiser, A Reed.

—Charles McGinnis, an Irishman by birth, aged 50 years, died at St. Joseph's Hospital on Wednesday, and was interred this morning.

—New Westminster is becoming modernized. Bicycles now perambulate the streets in increasing numbers.

—There is a blank in Mr. Wm. Craft's family, their third child, a son, aged one year and eight months, having died this morning.

—Jack Hayes is training at Swan Lake, with A. Whitlock, instead of at "The Willows" as announced. The contest will take place in the new theatre.

—The steward of the Royal Hospital begs to acknowledge receipt of a parcel of books from Mrs. Higgins and a quantity of fruit from R. T. Williams.

—An old Russian, of the name of Halstead, formerly engineer of the S. S. Constantine, died in Sitka of paralysis, about the 10th of October.

—The fight anticipates. A rousing anti-Chinese meeting will be held to-night at Harmony Hall, View street, at 7:30 o'clock.

—The branch line survey to New Westminster is now nearly complete. In a few days Mr. Strong will go to the terminus at Coal Harbor and explore the various routes to the water.

—The funeral of the late Charles Coldwell occurred to-day, at 2 p. m. It was attended by a large number of citizens, the fellow workmen of the deceased turning out in a body to pay the last mark of respect to their deceased comrade.

—The Knights of Labor have "severely censured the Colonist" for "misleading public opinion." This is very unkind of the Knights. Did the Colonist not tell them that they were without a grievance, and was the editor ever known to make a misstatement?

—The Victoria Dancing Club held a dance last night at Philharmonic Hall. Music was furnished by the Queen City Orchestra. To-night the Scotch Thistle Club will hold a dance in the same hall, and the same orchestra will perform, selections for those engaged in tripping the light fantastic.

—Messrs. DeBeck Bros. & Co., of the Brunette sawmill, received a log one day last week which measured 110 feet in length and 52 inches in diameter at the small end. It was straight and free from knots the whole length. This stick was logged by Mr. Terhune, at Pitt Lake, and it's a beauty.

—A salmon 4 feet 6 inches long, 14 inches around the small of the tail, 27 inches back of the dorsal fin, 33 inches in front of the dorsal, and 31 inches under the pectoral, near the gill, and weighing 70 pounds, was caught in Harrison river last week. The stuffed skin will be sent to the colonial exhibition at London.

—Mrs. W. Power, whose husband died at Farwell about a month ago, has been made the recipient of $400, generously subscribed by the business men of the city. Mrs. Carleton and Mrs. Nicholson, President and Secretary of the relief society, were instrumental in procuring the contributions. The act was a very kindly one.

—The trouble between Messrs. Hamley and Redfern and the Fire Wardens, in consequence of an infraction of the fire by-law, by the erection of wooden outhouses and balconies to their new brick blocks on Government street, which are within the fire limits, has been settled, and it will not be necessary to resort to the extreme measures proposed. Messrs. Hamley and Redfern will cover the wooden structures with corrugated iron, which will meet the demands of the by-law.

—"We have not opposed the establishment of a provincial university at all; but we have suggested that if one were established it ought to be centrally located. Is Fire Department prepared to say it should not?"—Columbian. If the sense in which our contemporary uses the words "centrally located" is a geographical one, THE TIMES is prepared to say "it should not." All other advantages being equal, the site nearest the centre of population should be chosen. Is our New Westminster friend prepared to say that it should not?

THE ROBERT KERR.

The bark Robert Kerr, condemned after having been stranded on San Juan Island, and now lying in Coal Harbor, was sold to-day by Mr. Joshua Davies, auctioneer. The purchaser was Mr. J. Hayman and the price paid was $1,040. The boats, sails, stores, etc., were sold in separate parcels, and went cheap.

NORTHERN VEGETABLES.

There are now on exhibition at Mr. Frank Campbell's samples of potatoes grown on the Arctic slope, 110 miles down the McKenzie river. They were brought down by Mr. John Grant, M. P. P. The tubers are large and fine and excellent in flavor.

MRS. HAMPSON.

Mrs. Hampson having declined to accept any remuneration for her services, at her service last evening a collection was taken for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association. The collection taken amounted to $70.

GRACE HAWTHORNE.

A Grand Performance Last Night—"Adrienne LeCouvreur" To-night—Her Benefit and Farewell Performance To-morrow Night.

Another fair-sized audience turned out last night to welcome Grace Hawthorne in still another play from her extensive repertoire. "Miss Multon" proved to be a French dramatization of Mrs. Wood's famous novel, "East Lynne." It was, of course, treated somewhat differently in subject matter, but was nevertheless an improvement on the old version. Emotional portrayals are clearly in Miss Hawthorne's line of thought, feeling and training. She has a tender, sympathetic intonation, an expressive eye, a face cast in the mold of sorrow, and a perfect knowledge of how to control the features in moments of anguish, the result was a marvelous performance. The entire company gave excellent support. To-night will doubtless prove the society event of the week, for it will be the first production here of the celebrated French comedy "Adrienne LeCouvreur", a play heretofore produced only by foreign actresses such as "Bernhardt", "Modjeska" and "Rhea", in fact Grace Hawthorne is the only American artiste that has ever attempted this difficult role. The management promises us a wardrobe to-night unsurpassed; it is said that several thousand dollars have been expended on the magnificent dresses to be worn by Miss Hawthorne and her company, to the splendor of the costumes and the brilliancy of the company we expect a rare treat.

This distinguished actress has been tendered a FAREWELL TESTIMONIAL by a number of Victoria's prominent citizens, and in answer to their request to accept the same, she has written them the following kind letter, which speaks for itself:

To Messrs. R. Dunsmuir, E. B. Marvin, D. W. Higgins, John Boyd, Louis Redon, C. Stroum, and 100 others.

GENTLEMEN—With great pleasure I most cheerfully respond to your generous privilege, and as you suggest, would name Saturday, October 24th, at the new Victoria Theatre, as the time and place, and portions of "Pauline", "Miriam Twist" and "Queena," as the plays for the honor which you are pleased to confer upon me. With a heart full of thanks for your gracious courtesy and my endless prayers for the continued prosperity of your beautiful city and its good people. I am, most humbly,

GRACE HAWTHORNE.

To-morrow afternoon Miss Hawthorne will give an extra souvenir matinee, on which occasion she will repeat by special request, The New Camille.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.

An Immense Crowd Present and Exciting Scene.

Last evening the spacious Methodist Church in this city was literally packed with a most respectable audience to hear Mrs. Hampson's temperance lecture. Every pew was crowded, the aisles were filled with chairs, and every available bit of standing room was occupied by an eager and expectant throng. The meeting having been opened by singing and prayer (led by Rev. Mr. Fraser) the Hon. Jno. Robson was called to preside, and at once proceeded to introduce the lecturer, who, in an eloquent and fervid address, and the vast audience spell-bound for the space of one hour and a half. At the conclusion of the address, which evoked repeated bursts of applause, a collection was taken up (according to previous announcement) for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, amounting to about seventy dollars. Mrs. Hampson having invited all those desirous of donning the regulation "blue ribbon," to come forward, took her stand within the Communion rail, where she, with her staff of assistants, was busily engaged in dispensing pledge cards and attaching badges to those who far nearly an hour continuously pressed forward. Amongst those were many who have, through Mrs. Hampson's mission, been brought to a better life, and many a touching scene was witnessed, as the good and gifted woman spoke parting words in season to each.

METHODIST MISSIONS.

The annual meeting of the general mission board of the Methodist Church of Canada, was next in Halifax last week, at which there was present a full board. The account rendered of the missionary work during the year was most encouraging. Dr. Sutherland, who recently visited this province, gave a graphic account of his trip, the progress being made in the country, its future prospects and the good work the church was accomplishing. Chinese mission in British Columbia, which was authorised by this board at its last session, has developed with unexpected rapidity. A school with two teachers and two assistants and an attendance ranging from 40 to 100 has been established. A young man, son of a Chinese missionary, who speaks the Cantonese dialect like a native, has been employed for the time being as missionary, and under his labors a number have already been led to embrace the truth. Dr. Sutherland, during his recent visit to the Pacific coast, had the privilege of administering baptism to eleven young men, from eighteen to thirty-two years of age, the first fruits of our mission to the Chinese of Victoria. Arrangements were made for the erection of mission buildings in this province and the Northwest, which will be supplied with missionary services at stated intervals.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR THE ALASKAN.

It is learned from reliable authority, says the Tacoma News, that the Canadian Pacific railway syndicate is negotiating with the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company of Portland for the purchase of the large side wheel steamer Alaskan, now lying at the yard on the Columbia river. This steamer is similar to the Olympian, and was built at Rosch's yard, Chester, Pa. The steamer is to run between British Columbia and all points on Puget Sound in search of freight and passengers for Eastern ports by way of the Canadian road. It is further stated that this syndicate has made a proposition to the people of Seattle to run a branch line from New Westminster to Seattle.

WAS IT AN OMISSION?

On the occasion of the recent visit of His Excellency the Governor General and suite to New Westminster, those having the arrangements for the reception of the party entrusted the issue of invitations for the ball to be given in honor of the occasion to the Mayor of that city, and the result was that the invitations were issued in the name of the Mayor and Corporation of New Westminster. Now, we are not aware that the Corporation of New Westminster had anything to do with the ball, and we are inclined to think that the invitations should have been issued in the name of the Committee of Management. Perhaps the Mayor and Corporation of New Westminster had something to do with the ball, and if so, we have been misinformed.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

A Strong Resolution of Censure on The Colonist.

The Knights of Labor met last night at Harmony Hall. There was a full attendance and the usual routine was transacted. The following resolution was moved, seconded and carried unanimously:

Resolved, That this Assembly of the Knights of Labor severely censures the Colonist newspaper in the action it has taken, in trying to mislead public opinion, regarding the existing condition of the people in this province of British Columbia, and its statement that prosperity and happiness reigns; while in the majority of cases there is only poverty and dissatisfaction; causing many to break up comfortable homes in the eastern provinces and journey here to participate in the good times thus deceitfully said to exist, and in many cases marring their prospects for happiness in this world for life. Many have come and returned at considerable expense. Many have come, and being without the means to return, have been then compelled to swell the ranks of the poverty-stricken.

Further, Resolved, That this resolution be sent to the principal newspapers in the province and the Dominion for publication, and also to the Provincial Secretary, as a warning to intending immigrants, especially mechanics and laborers, of the utterly demoralized state of the labor market in this province, mainly due to these treacherous statements of the said Colonist newspaper, and its inefficiency of the local government.

"HELD UP."

Travellers Through Eagle Pass Interviewed by Road Agents.

Since the completion of the railway grade between Eagle Pass Landing and Griffith Lake, and the consequent discharge of the large body of men who were employed thereon, travel over the trail to and between these points has become extremely dangerous, owing to the number of desperate characters who infest that section of country and make a living by "holding up" luckless travelers. On Friday last every traveler who passed over this piece of road was held up by the gang and made to hand over whatever money and valuables they were possessed of. Amongst the number was Mr. Dan. McGillivray, bridge foreman for Mr. Onderdonk. He however refused to fork over, and making a run for it finally succeeded in escaping from the robbers, but lost his watch which was shaken from his pocket during his remarkable display of pedestrianism. Numerous other robberies are reported, indicating extreme lawlessness in this district.

PACIFIC BREWERY BURNED.

At about one o'clock this morning, Mr. Deacon, proprietor of the Pacific brewery on Herald street, who sleeps on the premises, was aroused by a feeling of suffocation, and on getting up discovered the premises to be on fire. He immediately gave the alarm, and the fire department were promptly on the spot, and soon had the flames under control. The upper portion of the building was completely destroyed, while that portion in which the cellar was not greatly damaged, a considerable quantity of the stock being saved and three of the tubs. A house adjoining, occupied by J. Smith, was also on fire, but little damage was done. Great credit is due to the fire department for the efficient manner in which they did their work. The loss on brewery and stock is about $1500, insured in the Phœnix for $1500.

THE INDIAN RESERVE.

There is no change from that reported on Wednesday in the situation of affairs on the Indian Reservation. The Dominion government, it is asserted, have agreed to pay a rack-rent to the Indian department for the use of the grounds on which the immigration sheds are to be erected. Mr. S. Perry Mills is awakening the right of the government to attempt such an erection, without the consent of the Indian tribe now occupying the reserve. On further investigation THE TIMES is convinced that the claim of the province to this valuable reserve is greater than many suppose, and if it neglects watching the interest of the province, therein it will fail in its duty.

THE EMIGRANT BUILDING.

The new emigrant building, now in process of construction on the Indian Reserve, will be 100x30 feet, two stories, built of wood, and lathed and plastered. A kitchen attached will be 15x18 feet, with water closets and other conveniences. The main building will be divided into four rooms, two on each story, for both sexes. The contractors are Findlay & McLennan, and the cost will be about $6,000. Since the order of the Indian Commissioner, work has not been resumed, but operations are expected to begin again in a few days. The building will take about two months to complete.

AFTER A CUSTOM'S BROKER.

An elderly lady just from Scotland, created a little excitement on the Hudson Bay wharf on Thursday afternoon, through her indignation at a customs broker named Wylde. She claimed that he had extorted money from her by alleging that it was necessary to make out certain papers. After getting his name she started for the police barracks and made complaint but the money was returned and her anger in a measure appeased.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT GONE.

Mr. Alsey Fox died last night at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John W. Griffiths. Deceased was an early pioneer of the city, and owned one of the first brickyards established in British Columbia. Latterly he carried on business in Portland, and again removed to Victoria about a year ago. His remains were taken to Portland to-day for interment.

A LIVELY PLACE.

A traveler to the east via the C. P. R. writes to a friend in this city, from Farwell on the 18th inst.: "When I was within a mile of Farwell last night, I heard two shots in rapid succession. I afterwards learned that two men had been shot in a saloon, both flesh wounds in the knee or thereabouts. If ever there was a hell upon earth Farwell is its name. The place is just now full of black-legs of the worst stamp."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE NOBLE ART OF SELF-DEFENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—A recent correspondent in your columns, and some of our City Fathers, betray dissatisfaction of the approaching glove contest between Hayes and Clayton, and question its legality.

Giving those gentlemen full credit for their conscientious qualms, they must have forgotten that Governor Cornwall, for economic reasons rarely found patronizing, or subscribing to, local institutions, was conspicuously en évidence when Sullivan, and his brother bruisers, visited Victoria.

Now when the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province abandons his ordinary routine to attend the exhibition of a boxer so boorish and skill-less as Sullivan, who in the days of Mr. Jackson, Mr. Gully, Tom Cribb, or Tom Spring, would have been whipped out of an English prize-ring; it appears rather hypercritical to question propriety or legality of a glove match, safe to be conducted with complete fairness, and under due restraints.
